Foreword

THE MUSEUM OF NEW MEXICO is proud to present its Thirty-Fifth Annual Fiesta Exhibition in which several distinctive new features will be noted.

For the first time, contemporary crafts have been specifically included with the gratifying results of one-hundred-six entries from forty-two exhibitors, to which the whole Beauregard Gallery has been devoted.

To accommodate the ever increasing number of exhibitors, eligibility has been limited strictly to New Mexico painters, sculptors and craftsmen with places reserved for a few regular summer visiting artists of long standing.

This year a plan of purchase awards from the exhibition for the Museum's permanent collection is being inaugurated.

As an aid to the gallery visitor, the exhibition has been sectionalized into painting, sculpture and crafts with the painting section further subdivided according to medium.

Special attention was given to inviting entries from Spanish American artists and the Museum is pleased to see the notable talent and development shown by them. A special alcove is devoted to their painting and sculpture while numerous other items will be found in the craft section. It is the Museum's hope that from this nucleus will emerge a contemporary Spanish American art—an art growing out of New Mexico's fine Spanish Colonial background.

While the Museum's well-known open-door policy is maintained, a list of rules has been set up for the exhibition to facilitate handling and to make it of greater significance for exhibitors to be represented.

The Hanging Committee is given full responsibility for installation and arrangement of the exhibition, within a pre-determined framework and the Committee's decision as to location of individual works is final.
