Biographic Prologue

John S. Candelario [JSC], a seventh-generation New Mexican and a long-time friend of Georgia O’Keeffe, was born in Santa Fe in 1916.

A master of photography, he achieved a brilliant reputation in his field and in time was listed in Who’s Who in the West and International Who’s Who for distinguished work and his contribution to photography. He became a Fellow of the Royal Photographic Society of Great Britain, winning many other honors throughout the world of photography.

Early in his career, he did photographic work for Life Magazine, Holiday, Look, Saturday Evening Post, U.S. Camera, Popular Photography and other national and international magazines.

He had one-man shows at the La Quinta Gallery, The Art Museum of New Mexico, (Museum of Fine Arts). The Marshall Field Gallery, and The Museum of Modern Art in New York City. The Museum of Modern Art acquired his last one-man show for their permanent collection.

He worked as a camera-man, producer, director, and writer in the motion picture industry. For outstanding work in those pursuits he was awarded a TV Emmy, a Peabody Award, a Golden Reel Award, A Silver Reel Award, many blue ribbons, first awards and honorable mentions in the U.S., Latin America, and at various film festivals in Europe. He died in late 1993 at the age of 77 years.

Additional material in this Collection is to be found in the files of the Curator of Photography, the Collections Section of the MFA, and the Photography Archives of the Palace of the Governors.

SECTION II

GALLUP CEREMONIALS

(INTER-TRIBAL)

The so-called Gallup Meet refers to an inter-tribal Ceremonial held each year during the 1940s in Gallup, New Mexico known as “the Indian Capital.” Approximately 7,000 Native Americans from the most prominent tribes of the southwest participated in different, sectional dances and sports events during the three or four days of the meet. Its general nature is explained in an article to be found in a military magazine called Bombsight, an issue of which is contained in Folder 1. The other folders in this Section II contain brochures published contemporaneously with the yearly events. They make various references to the involvement of JSC, as pointed out by brief notes still attached to the brochures made by his surviving wife Gayle (Gail) Candelario. Those references have been adopted in the cataloguing that follows.

1. Military magazine. Bombsight, August 1, 1943, published at the Army Air Forces Bombardier School at Kirtland Field, New Mexico - An article written by Corporal C.E. Redman titled Gallup Inter-Tribal Ceremonial describes the origins of the annual meetings, pgs. 14-15. Photos by Harold Kellogg and JSC illustrate the article.

ADDENDUM
NUMBER 1

Addendum No. 1

Subsequent to the completion of work on the material comprising the primary portion of the John Candelario Collection (Boxes 94-95, O.B. 24], his widow, Lores Alice Klingbell Candelario, donated and sold additional material to the MFA. It is digested in the following pages of this addendum (see Table of Contents, at supra) and is stored in Box 122. Some of the material overlaps (but does not duplicate) items in the primary portion.

The Candelario material is divided between the MFA and the Photography Archives of the History Library of the Palace of the Governors. Additional material is retained in the estate files. Each of these sources maintains its own inventories and is available on request. Records in the MFA are itemized in this Candelario digest and in the Registrar's Office.

Material in this Addendum is assembled under the following headings.

Section VIII. Biographic and autobiographic material.

Section IX. Literary enterprises.

Section X. Photographs (photocopies)

Section XI. Miscellaneous

- A. Correspondence, memorandums
- B. Locations of materials.
- C. Temporary transaction/transmittal sheets; acquisition proposal.
- D. Last Will and Testament, JSC.
